

Showcasing a feature article from Professor Canesi's laboratory, University of Quebec in Montreal, Quebec, Canada.

Iodanes as multi-tools for the total synthesis of complex natural products

Hypervalent iodines are versatile and environmentally friendly reagents widely used in total synthesis for the formation of complex natural products. They can easily generate complexity from simple substrates and are now essential reagents in the toolbox of synthetic chemists.

As featured in:

See Sylvain Canesi et al.,
Chem. Commun., 2023, 59, 6495.