Each one of our outstanding peer reviewers has been carefully selected by our editorial team as having made significant contributions to peer review. In addition to reviewers who provided a high number of quality reports, we are pleased to highlight reviewers who provided exceptionally thorough and detailed reports, reviewers who provided clear and insightful adjudicative reports and reviewers who made additional efforts to aid authors in improving their manuscripts.

“Peer review is one of the quiet foundations of good science. I am very grateful to all reviewers who have supported Energy Advances with their time, expertise, and care. Their thoughtful and constructive reports help us maintain the quality of the journal and support authors in improving their work.” - Volker Presser, Editor-in-Chief.
